Med prireditvami, ki smo jih pripravili v letu 2023 ob 130-letnici delovanja ptujskega muzeja, je tudi razstava z naslovom Medalje, male umetnine v luči habsburške monarhije. Namen razstave s spremno publikacijo je predstaviti prezrto muzejsko zbirko, spominske medalje, predmete brez denarne vrednosti, ki razkrivajo tudi nekaj o politični moći in kulturi različnih družb.

Zbirka medalj iz obdobja od 17. do 20. stoletja, ki jo hrani ptujski muzej, je sad zbiralne politike muzeja od ustanovitve naprej. Teritorialno obsega območje nekdanje habsburške monarhije, nemškega cesarstva, dežel zahodne in jugovzhodne Evrope ter drugih ozemelj. Medalje so bile pridobljene z odkupom, nakupom ali kot darilo v letih od 1898 do 1941, v obdobju Mestnega Ferkovega muzeja, ki je deloval v sklopu Muzejskega društva Ptuj. Ker zbirka ni nastajala sistematično, v smislu, da bi pokrivali samo določeno oziroma izbrano območje in teme po področjih, vsebuje medalje različne kakovosti in materialov. Ugotavljanje izvora starejšega gradiva, pridobljenega v času Mestnega Ferkovega muzeja pred letom 1945, je zaradi pomanjkanja podatkov zapleteno, saj gradivo ni bilo sproti dokumentarno urejeno. Razstavljene spominske medalje in plakete smo proučili s pomočjo ustrezne strokovne tiskane in spletnje literature.

Z izborom medalj predstavljamo motive na njih, ki ponazarjajo področja in teme, značilne za čas od 17. do 20. stoletja. Teme so posvetne ali svetne narave, obema področjem pa je skupno, da je medalja imetnika oziroma lastnika, ne glede na to, iz kako kakovostnega materiala je bila narejena, spominjala na pomemben osebni ali družbeni dogodek, prireditev, kraj, osebnost in drugo.

Med naštetimi področji na razstavi in v spremni publikaciji na izbranih primerkih, ki jih hrani-mo v ptujskem muzeju, predstavljamo mestne in zgodovinske teme ter dogodke, povezane s Habsburžani. Razstavljene muzejske predmete in likovna dela s portreti, na katerih so predstavljena tudi odlikovanja, dopolnjujejo izposojeni predmeti, ki so povezani z likovnimi upodobitvami. Nekaterih odličij, ki so povezana z nekdanjim lastnikom gradu Ptuj iz sredine 17. stoletja in s ptujskimi meščani, v muzeju žal nimamo, zato smo vrzel zapolnili z izbranimi odličji habsburške monarhije iz zasebne zbirke.

Razstavo Medalje, male umetnine v luči habsburške monarhije smo pripravili z muzejsko ekipo konservatorjev, fotografa, risarke in tehnične ekipe, k sodelovanju pa smo povabili tudi zunanjega sodelavca zlatorja, srebrokovača in restavratorja Christopherja Steidla Porento, ki se mu zahvaljujemo za strokovno pomoč. Oblikovanje razstave s spremno publikacijo smo zaupali Jerneju Koželju in Janžetu Marinču, članoma oblikovalske ekipe Tak kolektiv iz Ljubljane, postavitev razstave Aleksandru Kelneriču, jezikovni pregled besedila Darji Gabrovšek Homšak, prevod v angleški jezik pa Tanji Ostrman Renault ter Suzani Lari in Matthewu Krausu. Zahvaljujemo se vsem, ki so sodelovali pri uresničevanju tega projekta.

Introduction

Among the events that we have prepared for Ptuj Museum's 130th anniversary in 2023 is an exhibition entitled Medals, small works of art in the Habsburg Monarchy. The purpose of the exhibition with its accompanying publication is to present a little-known museum collection, commemorative medals, objects without monetary value which reveal something about the political power and culture of different societies.

The collection of medals from the period of the 17th to the 20th century, kept by the museum in Ptuj, is the fruit of the museum's collection policy since the time the museum was founded. Territorially, it includes the area of the former Habsburg Monarchy, the German Empire, the countries of Western and Southeastern Europe, and other territories. They were acquired by redemption, purchase or as a gift between 1898 and 1941 during the period of the City Ferk Museum, which operated as part of the Ptuj Museum Association. Since the collection was not created systematically, in the sense of covering only a specific or selected territorial area and topics by field, it contains medals of differing qualities and materials. Determining the origin of the older material acquired during the time of the City Ferk Museum before 1945 is complicated due to the lack of data, as the material was not documented on an ongoing basis. We examined the displayed commemorative medals and plaques with the help of relevant professional printed and online literature.

With a selection of medals, we present the motifs that illustrate the areas and themes typical of the period from the 17th to the 20th century. The topics range from secular to religious in nature, although each share a common thread in that the medal, regardless of the quality of the material it was made of, meant to the holder or owner an important memory of a personal or social event, event, place, personality, etc.

Among the listed areas, the exhibition and its accompanying publication will explore urban and historical topics and events related to the House of Habsburg with selected specimens kept at the Ptuj Museum. The museum's exhibited objects and works of art with portraits, on which decorations are also presented, are complemented by borrowed objects that are related to the artistic depictions. For medals that we do not have in the museum, ones which are also connected to the former owner of the Ptuj castle from the middle of the 17th century and the citizens of Ptuj, we have filled the gap from a private collection with selected medals from the Habsburg monarchy.

The exhibition Medals, small works of art in the Habsburg Monarchy was carried out with the museum's team of conservators, a photographer, a sketch artist, and a technical team; we also invited an external colleague, the goldsmith, silversmith, and restorer Christopher Steidl Porenta, to participate, to whom we would like to thank for his technical assistance. We entrusted the design of the exhibition with the accompanying publication to Jernej Koželj and Janžej Marinč, members of the design team Tak kolektiv from Ljubljana, layout of the exhibition to Aleksander Kelnerič, linguistic revision of the text was made by Darja Gabrovšek Homšak, and translation into English by Tanja Ostrman Renault and Suzana Lara and Matthew Krause. We would like to thank everyone who participated in the realisation of this project.

Medalje in medaljerstvo

V umetnosti so medalje izoblikovale posebno področje male plastike. Izvor medalje sega v italijansko zgodnjo renesanso in italijanski humanizem. Njen hitri pojav ostaja do danes nepojasnjen. Beseda medalja izvira iz latinske besede metallum, tj. kovina, metal. Še bližje je italijanski izraz medaglia, s katerim so v srednjem veku poimenovali mali kovanec – mišlen je bil florentinski novec –, nato pa iz obtoka vzeti kovanec. V tem smislu je beseda prešla v francoščino; izraz za medaljo v tem jeziku je medaille. Danes medalja označuje kovancu podoben počastitveni, spominski ali za priložnostni namen izdelani kos, ki nima značaja denarja.

Na splošno je medalja okrogla, ulita ali kovana, obdelana na obeh straneh in po navadi narejena iz svinca, cinka, železa, bakra, brona, aluminija, srebra ali zlata, uporabljajo pa tudi druge materiale, na primer medenino, emajl, plastiko. Ob standardni obliki medalje obstajajo še njene kovne stopnje, ki imajo prav tako značaj medalje. V isto kategorijo kot medalja spada tudi okrasna ali spominska plaketa, ki je enostranska in štiri- ali večkotne oblike.

Umetniška večina medaljerstva se je od 16. stoletja naprej iz Italije počasi širila po Evropi. Moda izdelovanja medalj je med umetniki sprožila novo umetniško specializacijo oziroma nov poklic, poklic medaljerja. Zanj so se izučili tako kiparji kot graverji, ki so od 16. stoletja dalje kovali medalje. Za izdelovanje modelov medalj so uporabili različne materiale: vosek, ilovico, mavec, les, kamen. Še pred izdelavo modela je umetnik naredil študijske risbe motiva, pogosto so brez zadržkov prevzeli tudi tuje predloge. Ko sta bili obe strani medalje, averz in reverz, zmodelirani iz izbranega materiala, so pripravili kalup in ga dali livarju, da je ulil medaljo. Industrijska revolucija je tudi tej veji umetnosti omogočila, da so medalje postale tržni predmeti, saj so jih s stroji lahko izdelali v večjih količinah in cenovno ugodno. Z možnostjo množičnega izdelovanja predmetov iz neplremenitih kovin so tako razvrednotili prvotni pomen medalje, ki jo je izdelal umetnik, in jo s tem oddaljili od umetnosti. Odločilni dejavnik za povpraševanje in ponudbo je tako postala njena nizka cena in ne kakovost. Razvoj tehnike in tehnologije je v 20. stoletju prinesel dopolnitev k medalji v obliki sorodnega predmeta – značke, ki jo lahko zataknemo ali pripnemo na oblačilo. V sodobnosti se značke izdelujejo zelo redko, izdelajo jih predvsem ob pomembnih dogodkih, ko želimo z motivom prireditve spominsko zaznamovati dogodek za naše potomce.

Medals and medal making

In art, medals have formed a special field of small ornaments. The origins of medals go back to the early Italian Renaissance and Italian humanism. Its rapid appearance remains unexplained to this day. The word medal comes from the Latin word metallum, metal, metallic. Even closer is the Italian term medaglia, a term for a small coin in the Middle Ages, used for the Florentine coin, and later for a coin taken out of circulation. In this context, the word passed into the French term for a medal, medaille. Today, a medal refers to a coin-like celebrational, commemorative, or occasional piece that does not have the character of money.

In general, a medal is round, cast from a mould or minted, struck on both sides and usually made of the following metals: lead, zinc, iron, copper, bronze, aluminium, silver, and gold; other materials also can be used, such as brass, enamel, plastic. In addition to the standard shape of the medal, there are also its minting grades which also have the character of a medal. A decorative or commemorative plaque, which is decorated only on one side and quadrangular or polygonal, also belongs to the same category as a medal.

Since the 16th century, the art of medal-making slowly spread across Europe from Italy. The fashion of making medals initiated a new artistic specialisation among artists or the new profession of medallist. Both sculptors and engravers, who engraved medals from the 16th century, were specially trained for it. To design the medals models, medallists used different materials: wax, clay, plaster, wood, and stone. Before making a model, the artist made study sketches of the motif, and they often took on templates from other medallists without hesitation. After each side of the medal was modelled from the selected material, the obverse and reverse, a mould was prepared and given to the foundryman to cast the medal. The industrial revolution enabled this branch of art to become a marketable item, as it could be produced by machines in larger quantities and at an affordable price. With the possibility of mass production of objects from unprecious metals, they thus devalued the original meaning of a medal made by an artist and by this, distanced it from the art. The decisive factor of supply and demand thus became its low price and not its quality. The development of engineering and technology in the 20th century brought a replenishment to medals in the form of a related object - a badge that could be pinned to clothing. In modern times, the production of medals has become very rare, mostly limited to important events, when we want to use a motif of an event to commemorate the event for future generations.

Medalja Salvator Mundi mesta Dunaj, ok. 1649; graver Gerhard Lina. Od 1575 do 1938 je mesto Dunaj kovanec kot medaljo podeljevalo za posebne zasluge veljakom, znanstvenikom in umetnikom. Medalja je lep primer povezanosti kovancev in medalj v zgodnjem novem veku.

Salvator Mundi Medal of the City of Vienna, ca. 1649; engraver Gerhard Lina. From 1575 to 1938, the city of Vienna awarded the coin as a medal for special merits to dignitaries, scientists, and artists. This medal is a fine example of how coins and medals were connected in the Early modern period.

Medalja je lahko spominski ali razstavni kovanec, ki je bil skovan v spomin na posebno priložnost, osebo ali dogodek in podeljen kot nagrada ali ustvarjen kot umetnina. Zaradi priročnosti in tehnike izdelovanja so naročniki (vladarji, pomembneži, meščani) lahko umetnikom dali ustvariti večje količine medalj, da so jih nato lahko podarjali, zbiratelji pa tudi zamenjevali. Medaljerske delavnice, ki so postopoma dobine značaj podjetja, so upoštevale spremenjene razmere in služile vsem slojem prebivalstva. Od baroka dalje so uveljavljeni medaljerji in graverji svoje male umetnine kovali v priznanih uradnih kovnicah habsburške monarhije: na Dunaju, v Kremnici in Bratislavi na Slovaškem, v Hallu na Tirolskem in drugod.

Po tematiki delimo medalje na osebnostne, zgodovinske, spominske, zaslužne, politične, vojaške, gospodarske, športne, kulturne, raziskovalne, mestne, cerkvene, nagradne in druge. Na neštetih medaljah so upodobili vojne, bitke in upore, kugo in lakoto, vse nadloge, ki so prizadele ljudi. Medaljerji so zabeležili tudi vesele dogodke, na primer odprtje Južne železnice, ustanovitev izobraževalnih in kulturnih ustanov (Notranjeavstrijski narodni muzej Joanneum, sedaj Univerzalni muzej Joanneum), športne prireditve (kolesarske, strelske), posebne dosežke v naravoslovju, tehniki in gospodarstvu, svetovne in deželne razstave ter drugo. Na medaljah so ovekovečili pomembne izume, odkritja in odprave. Z izdanimi in razdeljenimi medaljami so družine sporočile sorodnikom in prijateljem rojstvo, poroko ali smrt v družini. Motivi na medaljah so različni, lahko so živalski in rastlinski, prometni (baloni, ladje, vlaki), vedute mest s krajino in arhitekturo itd.

Vedno priljubljena tema je bila upodobitev človeškega obraza. Od antike do danes je mogoče sestaviti galerijo osebnosti, ki so pisale svetovno zgodovino. Vsaka pomembna zgodovinska prelomnica – vojne z Napoleonom, dunajski kongres, revolucionarno leto 1848/1849, priključitve italijanskih dežel habsburški monarhiji ali tudi njihove izgube – je bila povod za izdelavo spominske medalje, tako na primer medalje feldmaršala Radetzkega po zmagi pri Sommacampagni in Custozi leta 1848, medalje ob skupnem prusko-avstrijskem vojnem pohodu leta 1864 proti Danski itd.

Napisi na medaljah so v latinskem in nemškem jeziku. Na Slovenskem so se slovenski napisni na medaljah prvič pojavili v 19. stoletju. V času taborskega gibanja v letih od 1868 do 1871 so na prizorišču dogodka (Ljutomer, Vižmarje, Ormož itd.) delili spominske medalje, imenovane tudi svetinjice, s slovenskim napisom v političnopropagandne namene. Te medalje so bile brez umetniške vrednosti.

The themes of medals

A medal can be a commemorative or exhibition coin that was minted to commemorate a special occasion, person, or event, given as an award, or created as a work of art. Because of their convenience and manufacturing technique, the clients (rulers, people of importance, bourgeois) could have it created by artists in large quantities, so that they could give it out as a gift, and collectors could also exchange them. Medal workshops, which gradually acquired the character of a business, considered the changed conditions and served all classes of the population. Since the Baroque period, established medallists and engravers minted their small works of art in the recognised official mints of the Habsburg monarchy: in Vienna and Hall in Tirol in Austria, Kremnica and Bratislava in Slovakia, and elsewhere.

By theme, we can divide medals into personal, historical, commemorative, meritorious, political, military, economic, sports, cultural, research, city, church, prizes, and other medals. Countless medals depicted wars, battles and rebellions, plagues, famines, and all the woes that befall people. The medallists also recorded happy events, for example, the opening of the Southern Railway, the establishment of educational and cultural institutions (the Inner Austrian National Museum Joanneum, now the Universalmuseum Joanneum), sports events (cycling, shooting), special achievements in the natural sciences, technology and economics, world and regional exhibitions and other events. Important inventions, discoveries and expeditions were also immortalised using medals. With issued and distributed medals, families announced births, marriages, or deaths in the family to relatives and friends. The motifs on the medals are different, they can be animal and foliate, transportation (balloons, ships, trains), vedutas of cities with landscapes and architecture, etc.

The depiction of the human face has always been a popular theme. From antiquity to the present, it is possible to compile a gallery of personalities who wrote world history. At each important historical turning point: the war with Napoleon, the Congress of Vienna, the revolutionary year 1848/1849, the annexation or loss of Italian lands to the Habsburg monarchy, there was an occasion for the production of a commemorative medal, for example, the medal of Field Marshal Radetzky for the victory at Somme Campagna and Custoza, 1848, and the medal for the joint Prussian-Austrian campaign against Denmark in 1864, etc.

The inscriptions on the medals are in Latin and German. In Slovenia, Slovenian inscriptions first appeared on medals in the 19th century. During the Tabor Movement from 1868 to 1871, commemorative medals, also called svetinjice (pilgrimage badges), with Slovene inscriptions were distributed at the scene of the event (Ljutomer, Vižmarje, Ormož, etc.) for political propaganda purposes; they had no artistic value.

Habsburžani in spominske medalje

Nalogo obeleževati določene zgodovinske dogodke (kronanja, zmage, mirovne dogovore, osvajanje mest in ozemelj ter drugo) so že zgodaj imele tudi podobe na kovancih. Taka politična propaganda se je prenesla na medalje, še posebej, ker so pogosto ponujale veliko boljše možnosti za sporočilnost o dogodku. Bile so odlično reklamno sredstvo, saj je njihova oblika omogočala enostavno razdeljevanje med ljudmi. Medalje kot medij so zelo dobro znali izkoristiti Habsburžani, saj so na njih obeležili številne zasebne (rojstva, zaroke, poroke, jubileje, smrti) ter državne in družbene obletnice in praznovanja ter dogodke različnih zvrsti (na primer politične ali vojaške zveze, potovanja cesarskega para oziroma cesarja ali predstavnikov vladarske hiše, vojaške manevre in drugo).

Z vojaškega in političnega področja so bile na medaljah zelo priljubljen motiv vojne Habsburžanov s Turki, na primer obleganje Turkov pred Dunajem leta 1683, pa tudi osvoboditev Beograda izpod Turkov leta 1789.

V vojvodini Štajerski je na medaljah iz prve polovice 19. stoletja zelo pogosto upodobljen nadvojvoda Janez, brat avstrijskega cesarja Franca I. Bil je pokrovitelj in prenovitelj industrije, kmetijstva, železnic, kulture in šolstva. Leta 1811 je skupaj s štajerskimi deželnimi stanovi ustanovil Notranjeavstrijski narodni muzej Joanneum, ki je bil predhodnik graške tehniške univerze. Po njegovih primarnih interesih je bil Joanneum sprva predvsem izobraževalna ustanova z znanstveno in tehnično usmeritvijo. Po smrti nadvojvode Janeza leta 1859 so bile razlog za njegovo počastitev na medaljah številne obletnice, med njimi tudi njegova petdesetletnica leta 1861 in stoljetnica Joanneuma leta 1911.

Cesar Franc Jožef I. je okrogle obletnice svojega vladanja dal zabeležiti na medaljah z motivi različnih prireditvev, pri katerih je bil pokrovitelj (društvena streljanja in praznovanja, gospodarske razstave, nagradne prireditve, športna tekmovanja in drugo), in tudi z motivi obiskov po vojvodinah dvojne monarhije, na primer z motivom svojega potovanja po slovenski Štajerski, Kranjski in Koroški julija in avgusta 1883.

The House of Habsburg and commemorative medals

From an early stage, the imagery on coins had the task of commemorating certain historical events (coronations, victories, peace treaties, the conquest of cities and territories, and so forth). This kind of political propaganda has been passed on to the medal, especially since it often offered much better opportunities to communicate the event. They were an excellent advertising material, as their shape allowed for easy distribution among people. The Habsburgs knew how to make the most of the medal as a medium, as they commemorated many private occasions (births, engagements, weddings, jubilees, deaths) as well as state and social anniversaries and celebrations, and events of various types (e.g., political or military alliances, travels of the imperial couple or the emperor or representatives of the ruling house, military manoeuvres and more).

From the military and political sphere, medals featured a very popular motif of the war between the Habsburg monarchy and the Ottoman Empire, e.g., the Turkish siege of Vienna in 1683, as well as the liberation of Belgrade from the Turks in 1789.

In the Duchy of Styria, Archduke John of Austria, brother of the Austrian Emperor Franz Joseph I, is often depicted on medals from the first half of the 19th century. He was a patron and reformer of industry, agriculture, railways, culture, and education. In 1811, together with the Styrian country estates (Landstände), he founded the Inner Austrian National Museum Joanneum, which was the forerunner of the Graz University of Technology. According to its primary interests, the Joanneum was initially primarily an educational institution with a scientific and technical focus. After the death of Archduke John in 1859, many anniversaries gave a reason to honour him on medals, including the Joanneum's fiftieth anniversary in 1861 and the centenary in 1911.

Emperor Franz Joseph I had the round anniversaries of his reign recorded on medals with the motifs of various events in which he was the sponsor of the event (shooting events and celebrations, economic exhibitions, award ceremonies, sports competitions, etc.) and also visits to the duchies of the dual monarchy, for example, a visit of Emperor Franz Joseph I in July and August 1883 to Slovenian Styria, Carniola and Carinthia).

Odlikovanja habsburške monarhije

V habsburški monarhiji so podeljevali rede in medalje za zasluge ljudem na različnih področjih. Prvotno so bili odlikovani predvsem uspešni vojskovodje in diplomati, sčasoma pa tudi številne javne osebnosti. Medalj in odlikovanj je bilo mnogo, če štejemo vse stopnje (veliki križ, komturski križ, mali križec, križi), različice plaket itd. Najpomembnejši je bil red zlatega runa. Prejemnik tega reda je moral biti plemiškega rodu in katoliške vere. Podelili so ga le za izjemne zasluge za državo. Z redom je bil odlikovan tudi vojskovodja in diplomat Valter grof Leslie, lastnik gradu Ptuj v letih od 1656 do 1667. Med najvišje redove spadajo še vojaški red Marije Terezije (samo za častnike, podeljen za izjemno hrabrost in vojne zasluge), kraljevski ogrski red sv. Štefana (samo za civilne zasluge), avstrijskocesarski Leopoldov red (za civilne in vojaške zasluge), avstrijskocesarski red železne krone (za civilne in vojaške zasluge) in red Franca Jožefa (za zasluge za vse razrede državljanov); če so bili zadnji trije navedeni redi podeljeni za vojne zasluge, so imeli tako imenovano vojno okrasje, tj. zeleno emajliran venec na odlikovanju. Po smrti cesarice Elizabete je cesar Franc Jožef I. leta 1898 ustanovil Elizabetin red, edini red za zasluge v monarhiji, namenjen samo ženskam.

Obstajala so tudi priznanja nižjih stopenj (zaslužni in vojaški križ ter medalje itd.), ki so bila podeljena stotisočem posameznikom. Vsi državni uradniki in vojaške osebe so prejeli priznanja ob 50-letnici vladanja cesarja Franca Jožefa 1848–1898. Paleta civilnih in vojaških odlikovanj je bila zelo široka. Vojaki na bojiščih, še posebno v prvi svetovni vojni, so prejeli medalje za hrabrost, lahko tudi večkrat, in ranjeniško medaljo, ko so bili ranjeni. Redi, medalje, križi so bili pripeti na trakove v habsburških barvah. Najpogostejši so bili zlati in črni trakovi, lahko pa tudi enobarvni rdeči in progasti rdeče-belo-rdeči.

Na Slovenskem so bili v obdobju habsburške monarhije za zasluge za državo odlikovani številni župani, civilni in vojaški uradniki, sodniki, zdravniki, veterinarji, učitelji, cerkveni dostojanstveniki in častniki, med prvo svetovno vojno pa tudi vojaki na bojiščih s številnimi križci in medaljami za hrabrost. Odlikovanja monarhije za zasluge so prejeli tudi ptujski meščani; omenjam župana Franca Eckla (viteški križ Franca Jožefa, podeljen 1894) in Josefa Orniga (oficirski viteški križ Franca Jožefa, podeljen 1908, in viteški križ Franca Jožefa, podeljen 1898) ter proše Matijo Modrinjaka (vitez reda železne krone III. stopnje, podeljen 1883), Jakoba Standeggerja (zlati križ s krono, podeljen 1854) in Jožefa Flecka (vitez železne krone III. razreda in medalja za štirideset let dela, oba podeljena 1899).

Orders of the Habsburg monarchy

In the Habsburg monarchy, orders and medals were awarded to meritorious persons in various fields. Originally, mainly successful military leaders and diplomats were the ones awarded, but many public figures were eventually awarded as well. There were many medals and orders if we count all levels (Grand Cross, Commander's Cross, Small Cross, Crosses), versions of plaques, etc. The most important was the Order of the Golden Fleece. The recipient of this order had to be of noble descent and practice the Catholic faith. It was only awarded to persons for outstanding service to the country. Military leader and diplomat Count Walter Leslie, owner of Ptuj Castle between 1656 and 1667, was also decorated with this order. The highest orders include the Military Order of Maria Theresa (as a reward for outstanding bravery and merit for senior military officers), the Royal Hungarian Order of St. Stephen (for civil merit only), the Austrian Imperial Leopold Order (for civil and military merit), the Austrian Order of the Iron Crown (for civil and military merit) and the Order of Franz Joseph (for merit from all classes of citizens); in the event that the last three orders mentioned were awarded for war merit, they had the so-called war decoration, a green enamelled wreath on the decoration. After the death of Empress Elizabeth, Emperor Franz Joseph I founded the Order of Elizabeth in 1898; the only order for merit in the monarchy that was intended only for women.

There were also lower orders (meritorious and military crosses and medals, etc.) that were awarded to hundreds of thousands of individuals. All civil government employees and military personnel received medals on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the reign of Emperor Franz Joseph I 1848-1898. The range of civilian and military decorations was very wide. Soldiers on the battlefields, especially in World War I, received medals for bravery, sometimes several times, and the Wound Medal when they were wounded.

Orders, medals, and crosses were attached to ribbons in Habsburg colours, the most common were gold and black ribbons, plain red, and striped red-white-red.

In Slovenian areas, during the period of the Habsburg monarchy, many mayors, civil and military officials, judges, doctors, veterinarians, teachers, church dignitaries and officers were honoured for their services to the country; and during World War I, soldiers who fought on the battlefields were awarded many crosses and medals for bravery. The citizens of Ptuj also received orders from the monarchy for their merits; we mention the mayor Franz Eckl (Knight's Cross of Franz Joseph, awarded 1894) and Josef Ornig (Officer's Cross of Franz Joseph, awarded 1908; Knight's Cross of Franz Joseph, awarded 1898;) and provosts Matija Modrinjak (Order of the Iron Crown 3rd Class, awarded 1883), Jakob Standegger (Golden Cross of Merit with the Crown, awarded 1854) and Josef Fleck (Order of the Iron Crown 3rd Class, Medal for 40 years of service, both awarded 1899).

Valter grof Leslie je dal podeljeno prestižno odlikovanje red zlatega runa ovekovečiti tudi v grbu družine Leslie, vzidanem nad portalom v slavnostni dvorani ptujskega gradu.

Count Walter Leslie, who was inducted into the Distinguished Order of the Golden Fleece, had the award immortalised onto the Leslie family coat of arms and added above the portal to the ceremonial hall of Ptuj Castle.

Franc Riml von Altrosenburg. Od kadeta do feldmaršala.

Franc Dominik Ludvik Riml se je rodil 4. avgusta 1867 v Vsetínu na Moravskem. Po končani Državni gimnaziji v Freibergu je šolanje nadaljeval na vojaški akademiji v Hainburgu, kjer so se izobraževali pionirji. Po opravljenem stažiranju je leta 1888 napredoval v čin poročnika, leta 1891 pa v nadporočnika. Ker se je že med šolanjem v Hainburgu in pri poznejšem službovanju v pionirskeh enotah izkazal za zelo sposobnega, je bil leta 1892 poslan na dodatno izobraževanje na Dunaj in bil leta 1893 imenovan za generalštabnega oficirja. Leta 1894 je služboval kot generalštabni oficir pri 94. pehotni brigadi v Kotorju v današnji Črni gori. Poveljeval ji je generalmajor Karl Heyrowsky, s čigar hčerjo Olgo se je Franc Riml poročil leta 1897 v Celovcu. Leta 1896 je napredoval v čin stotnika prvega razreda. Po prenestitvi v Innsbruck je bil v letih od 1897 do 1906 predavatelj v pehotni kadetnici; v tem času so se mu rodili vsi štirje otroci (Franc, Marjeta, Karl in Oto).

V vojaški karieri je kot generalštabni oficir zelo hitro napredoval: leta 1904 je bil povisan v majorja, leta 1908 v podpolkovnika in leta 1911 v polkovnika. Leta 1911 je bil imenovan za šefa generalštaba pri 11. korpusu avstro-ogrske armade s sedežem v Lvovu (Lembergu) v Galiciji (sedaj Ukrajina). Na tem položaju je dočakal začetek prve svetovne vojne. Kot poveljnik generalštaba 11. korpusa je bil leta 1914 na vzhodni fronti udeležen v številnih krvavih bitkah z Rusi. Leta 1915 je napredoval v čin generalmajorja, junija 1915 pa se je kot poveljnik 26. brambovske pehotne brigade še posebej izkazal, saj je s svojimi enotami osvobodil Lvov, ki so ga leto dni prej zavzeli Rusi. Junija in julija 1915 je bil imenovan za prvega vojaškega poveljnika mesta Lvov, kjer se je še posebej izkazal s prepovedjo maltretiranja ruskih vojnih ujetnikov, a se je kmalu nato na lastno željo vrnil na fronto. V začetku februarja 1916 je bil ponovno imenovan za poveljnika mesta Lvov. Za vojaške uspehe je bil junija povzdignjen v dedni plemiški stan (von Altrosenburg). V vlogi poveljnika mesta je odločno skrbel za oskrbo prebivalcev s hrano in drugimi potrebsčinami. Konec leta 1916 se je na božični večer zgodila družinska tragedija, saj je sin med igranjem s samokresom po nesreči ustrelil očeta in mater, ki sta stala ob božičnem drevesu. Oče je bil lažje ranjen v desno roko, mati pa je za posledicami rane umrla sredi januarja 1917. Riml je na lastno željo junija 1917 odstopil z mesta poveljnika Lvova in je bil premeščen v vojno poveljstvo na Dunaj. Marca 1918 se je vdovec Riml na Dunaju poročil z Marjeto, vdovo po prof. dr. Rambouseku, maja istega leta pa je napredoval v čin feldmaršala.

Po razpadu avstro-ogrske monarhije je bil Franc Riml von Altrosenburg kot češkoslovaški državljan upokojen 1. januarja 1919. Tega leta se je preselil v prvo Jugoslavijo, saj je v bližini Ptuja kupil posest v Zamušanah pri Gorišnici (dvorec Zamošak), na kateri je živel vse do svoje smrti. Umrl je 23. marca 1945 za posledicami kapi v starosti 78 let. V najožjem družinskem krogu so ga pokopali na pokopališču v Gorišnici, kjer počiva še danes.

Franz Riml von Altrosenburg. From cadet to vice-marshall

Franc Dominik Ludvik Riml was born on August 4th, 1867, in Vsetín in Moravia. After graduating from the state gymnasium in Freiberg, he continued his education at the military academy in Hainburg, where cadets were trained. After completing his internship, he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant in 1888, and First Lieutenant in 1891. Since he already proved to be very capable during his schooling in Hainburg, and later serving in the cadet units, he was sent to Vienna in 1892 for additional education and was appointed a general staff officer in 1893. In 1894, he served as a general staff officer in the 94th Infantry Brigade in Kotor in today's Montenegro. The brigade was commanded by Major General Karl Heyrowsky, whose daughter Olga, Riml married in Klagenfurt in 1897. In 1896, he was promoted to Captain of the first rank. After moving to Innsbruck, he was a lecturer at the infantry cadet school from 1897 to 1906, during which time all four of his children (Franc, Marjeta, Karl and Oto) were born.

He advanced in his military career as a general staff officer very quickly; in 1904, he was promoted to Major, in 1908 to Lieutenant Colonel, and to Colonel in 1911. In 1911, he was appointed Chief of the General Staff of the 11th Corps of the Austro-Hungarian Army based in Lviv (Lemberg) in Galicia (now Ukraine). In this position, he saw the beginning of World War I, whereas commander of the General Staff of the 11th Corps in 1914 on the Eastern Front, he participated in many bloody battles with the Russians. In 1915, he was promoted to the rank of Major General, and, in June 1915, as the commander of the 26th Militia Infantry Brigade, he particularly distinguished himself as he and his units liberated Lviv, which had been captured by the Russians a year earlier. In June and July 1915, he was appointed as the first military commander of the city of Lviv, where he particularly distinguished himself by prohibiting the mistreatment of Russian prisoners of war. Shortly afterwards, he returned to the front at his request. At the beginning of February 1916, he was again appointed commander of the city of Lviv. For his military successes, he was elevated to hereditary nobility (von Altrosenburg) in June. In his role as the city's commander, he resolutely ensured the supply of food and other necessities to the inhabitants. At the end of 1916, on Christmas Eve, a family tragedy occurred, as his son, playing with a pistol, accidentally shot his father and mother, who were standing by the Christmas tree. The father suffered minor injuries in the right arm, the mother died in mid-January 1917 as a result of her wound. At his request, Riml resigned from the position of commander of the city of Lviv in June 1917 and was transferred to Vienna military command. In March 1918, the widower Riml married Marjeta, widow of Professor Rambousek, PhD, and in May of the same year, he was promoted to the rank of Vice-Marshall.

After the collapse of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, Franz Riml von Altrosenburg retired as a Czechoslovak citizen on January 1st, 1919. That year, he moved to the Kingdom of Yugoslavia, as he bought a property near Ptuj in Zamušani pri Gorišnica (Manor Zamošak), on which he lived until his death. He died on March 23rd, 1945, at 78, from a stroke. He was buried in the plot for his immediate family at the cemetery in Gorišnica, where he still rests today.

V galerijski zbirki hranimo tudi nekaj oljnih portretov, ki izvirajo iz zapuščine rodbine Riml, med njimi dva portreta Franca Rimla von Altrosenburga v avstro-ogrski generalski uniformi s številnimi odlikovanji in portret najstarejšega sina Franc v uniformi avstro-ogrsko mornarice. Obstajata še dve kiparski upodobitvi generala Rimla: njegov doprsni portret in reliefna upodobitev, ki je vzidana v njegov nagrobeni spomenik na pokopališču v Gorišnici.

Tričetrtinski reprezentančni portret generalmajorja Franca Rimla v svečani uniformi je naslikal poljski slikar Wladyslaw Jarocki (1879-1965) leta 1916, kmalu potem, ko je cesar Franc Jožef zaradi vojaških zaslug na bojnem polju Rimla povzdignil v dedni plemiški stan z atributom von Altrosenburg, o čemer priča v zgornjem levem kotu naslikani grb s stolpom in vrtnico.

In the gallery collection, we also keep some oil portraits from the legacy of the Riml family, among them are two portraits of Franz Riml von Altrosenburg in an Austro-Hungarian general uniform with several decorations and a portrait of his eldest son Franc in the uniform of the Austro-Hungarian navy. There are also two sculptural depictions of General Riml: his bust and a relief-like depiction built into Riml's gravestone at the cemetery in Gorišnica.

The three-quarter representative portrait of Major General Franz Riml in ceremonial uniform was painted by the Polish painter Wladyslaw Jarocki (1879-1965) in 1916, shortly after Emperor Franz Joseph elevated Riml to the hereditary nobility with the attribute of von Altrosenburg for his military merits on the battlefield; in the upper left corner of the painting, there is a coat of arms with a tower and a rose to commemorate his elevation.

Reliefna upodobitev Franca Rimla na nagrobnem spominski plošči je delo kiparja Jana Juliusa Nalborczyka iz leta 1917. Pokopališče Gorišnica.

The relief depiction of Franz Riml on a memorial plaque is the work of sculptor Jan Julius Nalborczyk from 1917. Gorišnica Cemetery.

Nekoliko intimnejši je Rimlov dopasni sedeči portret v sivi bojni uniformi, ohlapno ognjeni s plaščem z rdečo podlogo, ki ga je leta 1917 naslikal poljski slikar Ludwik Kwiatkowski (1880–1953); ta portret so Rimlu podarili hvaležni Lemberžani potem, ko je bil na lastno željo z mesta vojaškega poveljnika Lvova premeščen v vojno poveljstvo na Dunaj.

Obe kiparski upodobitvi sta delo poljskega kiparja Jana Juliusa Nalborczyka (1870–1940), ki je tako kot oba slikarja med prvo svetovno vojno deloval v Lvovu. Črno patiniran mavčni doprsni portret Rimla je nastal v letih 1916 in 1917, ko je bil drugič vojaški poveljnik mesta, reliefna upodobitev na Rimlovem nagrobniku pa je iz leta 1917. Na spominski plošči je na desni strani generalmajor upodobljen v profilu, na levi strani pa so vidne strehe gorečega Lvova, ki so ga pod njegovim poveljstvom v tretji bitki pri Lembergu 22. junija 1915 enote 26. pehotne brigade v silovitem napadu vnovič zavzele, sam pa je nato postal prvi vojaški poveljnik osvobojenega Lvova.

Vsi njegovi portreti so okrašeni z odlikovanji, ki jih je prejel ob napredovanjih v višji čin ter za vojaške zasluge v mirnem in vojnem času. Med njimi omenjamo: medaljo za vojaške zasluge, imenovano Signum laudis (1907), vojaški križ za zasluge (1909), avstrijski red železne krone III. stopnje z vojnim okrasjem (1914), pruski železni križec II. stopnje in bavarški vojaški zasluzni red II. stopnje z zvezdo in meči (slednja dva ob soglasju cesarja Franca Jožefa I.) ter avstrijski viteški križec Leopoldovega reda z vojnim okrasjem (1915), vojaški križ za zasluge III. stopnje z vojnim okrasjem (1916) ter še eno medaljo za vojaške zasluge z meči na traku (1917).

Somewhat more intimate is Riml's seated bust portrait painted in 1917 by the Polish painter Ludwik Kwiatkowski (1880–1953). On it, Riml is wearing a grey battle uniform, loosely wrapped in a red-lined coat. This portrait was given to Riml by the grateful people of Lemberg after he was transferred from the post of military commander of Lviv to the military command in Vienna at his request.

Both sculptural depictions are the work of the Polish sculptor Jan Julius Nalborczyk (1870–1940), who, like both painters, worked in Lviv during World War I. The black-patinated plaster bust portrait of Riml was created between 1916 and 1917, when he was military commander of the city for the second time, and the relief depiction on Riml's tombstone is from 1917. On the memorial plaque, on the right side, the major general is depicted in profile, and on the left, the roofs of the burning city of Lviv are visible, which was recaptured under his command in the third battle of Lemberg on June 22nd, 1915, by the units of the 26th Infantry Brigade in a vicious attack, and he became the first military commander of liberated Lviv after that.

All his portraits are decorated with the medals he received on promotion to a higher rank and for military services in peacetime and wartime. Among them, we mention: the Military Merit Medal referred to as Signum laudis (1907), the Military Merit Cross (1909), the Austrian Order of the Iron Crown 3rd class with war decoration (1914), the Prussian Iron Cross 2nd class and the Bavarian Military Merit Order 2nd class with star and swords (the latter two with consent from Emperor Franz Joseph I), the Austrian Knight's Cross of the Order of Leopold with war decoration (1915), the Military Merit Cross 3rd class with war decoration (1916), and he also received the Military Merit Medal with swords on the ribbon for the second time in 1917.

V srednji Evropi je bil tolar s podobo svetega Jurija kot kovanec, obesek ali broška del neuradne standardne opreme vseh vojsk od konca 17. do konca 19. stoletja. Ne glede na versko prepričanje vojakov je bil njihov najbolj zaželen zaščitni amulet. Kljub številnim verskim vojnam je zavetnik sveti Jurij ostal najpomembnejši zaščitnik za jezdece, pešce in pomorščake vseh veroizpovedi. Na averzu je predstavljena podoba svetega Jurija na konju, ki s sulico ubija zmaja pod seboj. Na zgornjem robu kovanca je napis: S. GEORGIVS EQVITUM PATRONVS. Reverz namesto grba krasí motiv iz Nove zaveze: na ladji v viharju speči Kristus. Nad ladjo je na vrhu napis: IN TEMPESTATE SECVRITAS. Od konca 17. do konca 19. stoletja je bil tolar s podobo svetega Jurija izdelek kovnice v Kremnici na Slovaškem. Kovanec je bil predelan v broško. Na reverzu ima z lotom zalito prečno iglo.

In Central Europe, the St. George silver coin, as a coin, pendant, or brooch, was an unofficial part of the standard equipment of all armies between the end of the 17th and 19th centuries. Regardless of a soldier's religious beliefs, it was considered their most desired protective amulet. Despite many religious wars, the patron Saint George remained the most important protector for horsemen, footmen, and sailors of all faiths. The obverse features an image of Saint George on horseback, slaying a dragon below him with a spear. On the upper edge is the inscription: S. GEORGIVS EQVITUM PATRONVS. Instead of a coat of arms, the reverse is decorated with a motif from the New Testament, a ship in a storm with a sleeping Christ. Above the ship at the top is the inscription INTEMPESTATE SECVRITAS. From the end of the 17th to the end of the 19th century, the St. George Thaler was a product of the Kremnica mint in Slovakia. The coin was reworked into a brooch. On the reverse, it has a diagonal needle attached with solder.

Svetovna razstava na Dunaju je bila peta po londonski leta 1851. Razstavišče v dunajskem Pratru je bilo zgrajeno v velikem obsegu. Osrednja točka je bila veličastna zgradba rotunde, kot je upodobljena na spominski medalji. Rotunda je pogorela leta 1937. Na averzu je na levo obrnjena sedeča Atena v antični obleki s čelado na glavi, ki v iztegnjeni desnici drži krilato Viktorijo na zemeljski krogli z lovorovim vencem v roki. Atena drži v levici ščit z glavo Meduze. Ob njeni nogi je upodobljena sova, njen atribut. Podočno Atene z Viktorijo obdaja napis: DEM VERDIENSTE SEINE KRONE! Na reverzu sta nad rotundo upodobljena dva grifona s trakom z napisom VIRIBUS UNITIS. Nad napisom držita grifona grb s krono z napisom FJI. Pod rotundo je dvovrstični napis: WELTAUSSTELLUNG 1873 WIEN.

The Vienna World's Fair was the fifth after the one in London in 1851. The exhibition centre in Vienna's Prater was built on a large scale. 1. junija 1816 je cesar Franc I. ustanovil privilegirano Avstrijsko narodno banko. Njena najpomembnejša ugodnost je bila pravica, da je bila edina banka v Avstriji, ki je lahko izdajala avstrijske bankovce. Leta 1878 je postala avstro-ogrsk banka. Ko je monarhija po prvi svetovni vojni razpadla, so leta 1919 banko zaprli. Na averzu je upodobljen cesar Franc I., ki predaja patent o ustanovitvi privilegirane Avstrijske narodne banke ministru grofu Stadionu. Nad osrednjim motivom je napis PRIVILEGIERTE ÖSTERREICHISCHE NATIONALBANK 1. JUNI 1816. Na reverzu je desetvrstični napis, obdan z lovorovim vencem: FRANCISCVS I. / KALENDIS IVNIIS / A MDCCXVI CONDIDIT / FRANCISCO IOSEPHO I. / GLORIA REGNANTE / SAECVLARIA / ORIGINIS / ACTA SVT / MCMXVI. Na spodnjem skrajnem desnem robu je na mestu, kjer sta prekrižani lovorovi vejici, črka A (kovnica Dunaj).

On June 1st, 1816, Emperor Franz I founded the privileged Austrian National Bank. Their most important benefit was that they were the only bank in Austria that was allowed to issue Austrian banknotes. In 1878, it became the Austro-Hungarian bank. When the monarchy collapsed after World War I, the bank closed in 1919. On the obverse, Emperor Franz I is depicted handing over the patent for the establishment of the privileged Austrian National Bank to Minister count von Stadion. Above the central motif is the inscription PRIVILEGIERTE ÖSTERREICHISCHE NATIONALBANK 1. JUNI 1816. On the reverse is a ten-line inscription surrounded by a laurel wreath: FRANCISCVS I. / KALENDIS IVNIIS / A MDCCXVI CONDIDIT / FRANCISCO IOSEPHO I. / GLORIA REGNANTE / SAECVLARIA / ORIGINIS / ACTA SVT / MCMXVI. On the lower right edge, in the space between the two crossed laurel branches is the letter A (Mint Vienna).

Cesar Franc I. je leta 1814 ustanovil civilni in vojaški križ. Vojaški križ z dvema razredoma (veliki vojaški križ in vojaški križ) je bil nagrada za tiste čete, ne glede na čin, ki so sodelovale v bitkah proti Francozom in njihovim zaveznikom v letih 1813 in 1814. Drugo ime za to odlikovanje je tudi topovski križ, saj je narejen iz brona zaplenjenih francoskih topov. Razlika med vojaškim in civilnim križem je, da slednji med kraki ni imel lovorovega venca. Vojaški enakokraki križ ima na ozki rebrasti ovalni zanki obešen črno-rumeno-črn trak; krake križa na obeh straneh povezuje zlat lovoro venec. Na averzu je v krakih križa napis GRATI / PRINCEPS ET PATRIA / FRANC / IMP AVG. Na reverzu piše EUROPAE / LIBERTATAE ASSER TA / MDCCCXIII / MDCCCXIV.

In 1814, Emperor Franz I founded a civil and army cross. The Army Cross, which comes in two classes (Grand Army Cross and Army Cross), was a reward for those troops without regard to rank who had participated in the battles against the French and their allies in 1813 and 1814. Another name for this decoration is the Cannon Cross, as it was cast from the bronze of confiscated French cannons. The difference between the army and civilian cross is that the latter did not have a laurel wreath between its arms. The army equal-armed cross has a narrow ribbed oval loop suspension and a black-yellow-black ribbon; the arms of the cross are connected on both sides by a golden laurel wreath. On the obverse is the inscription GRATI / PRINCEPS ET PATRIA / FRANC / IMP AVG in the arms of the cross. On the reverse is written EUROPAE / LIBERTATAE ASSERTA / MDCCCXIII/ MDCCCXIV.

Raziskovalno potovanje avstrijske fregate Novarra okoli sveta (1861–1876) je organizirala cesarska akademija znanosti na Dunaju. Potovanje je prineslo mednarodno priznane rezultate, na osnovi katerih je postala oceanografija samostojna znanstvena veda. Z odprave so prinesli botanične in zoološke zbirke in etnološko gradivo; z zbirkami so obogatili avstrijske muzeje. Muzejski primer plakete je dvodelen. Cesar Franc Jožef I. je v dogovoru s pruskim kraljem Viljemom I. 10. novembra 1864 ustanovil spominsko medaljo za vojni pohod leta 1864 proti Danski. Povod za ustanovitev skupne medalje je bila zmaga Prusije in Avstrije nad Dansko. Sprožilni dejavnik tega sporja je bila združitev vojvodine Šlezije z Dansko. Medalja je narejena iz zaplenjenega materiala topov. Nosili so jo na traku belo-črno-rumene barve s tankima črnima progama na robu. Izdelal jo je medaljer Friederich Leisek.

Na sprednji strani sta prepletena monograma obeh vladarjev, na levi FJ, nad njim je avstrijska cesarska krona, na desni pa W, nad njim je dvignjena pruska kraljeva krona. Pruska inačica ima zamenjan vrstni red inicialik. Na zadnji strani je štirivrstični napis UNSEREN / TAPFERN / KRIGERN / 1864, ki ga obdaja lovorov venec, spet z dvojno pentljko. Rob medalje ima graviran napis AUS EROBERTEN GESCHÜTZ. V muzeju hranimo avstrijsko različico spomenice.

On November 10th, 1864, Emperor Franz Joseph I, in agreement with King Wilhelm I of Prussia, established a commemorative medal for the 1864 war campaign against Denmark. The reason for establishing a joint medal was the victory of Prussia and Austria over Denmark. The triggering moment of this conflict was the unification of the Duchy of Schleswig with Denmark.

The bronze commemorative medal is made from confiscated cannon material. It was worn on a white-black-yellow ribbon with two thin black stripes on the edge. It was made by the medallist Friederich Leisek.

The obverse features the interlaced monograms of the two rulers, FJ on the left, above it the Austrian Imperial Crown, and W on the right side, with the Prussian Royal Crown above it. The Prussian version has the order of the initials reversed. On the reverse is the four-line inscription UNSEREN / TAPFERN / KRIGERN / 1864, surrounded by a laurel wreath, again with a double bow. The edge of the medal has an engraved inscription: AUS EROBERTEN GESCHÜTZ. The Austrian version of the memorandum is kept at the museum.

Red zlatega runa je 10. januarja 1430 ustanovil burgundski vojvoda Filip Dobri. Uvrščamo ga med zgodovinsko najplivnejše posvetne evropske dinastične rede. Namenjen je bil za nagrajevanje članov habsburške hiše in pripadnikov najvišjega plemstva ter državnih voditeljev. Glavni namen reda je bila obramba Rimskokatoliške cerkve. Simbol reda je zlato ovnova runo (volna), ki visi z modro emajliranega kremena. Tako je izražena povezava s starogrško zgodbo o Jazonu in argonavtih, vendar so v srednjem veku mitološkega junaka Jazona zamenjali s svetim Jurijem, ki ubija zmaja.

Med avstrijsko plemiško elito je članstvo v redu veljalo za vrhunec kariere. Del te plemiške elite je bil tudi diplomat Valter grof Leslie, lastnik ptujske gospoščine med letoma 1656 in 1667. Pred odhodom na diplomatsko odpravo v Istanbul v letih 1665 in 1666 je od cesarja Leopolda I. zahteval, da mu podeli red zlatega runa. Podeljeno prestižno odlikovanje je dal ovekovečiti tudi v grbu družine Leslie, vzidanem nad portalom v slavnostni dvorani ptujskega gradu.

V 18. stoletju sta bila ustanovljena dva med seboj neodvisna reda zlatega runa, avstrijski in španski. Avstrijski je bil ukinjen z razpadom Avstro-Ogrske leta 1918, kot najvišje odlikovanje kraljevine Španije pa ga podejlujejo še v 21. stoletju.

Red sestavlja obesek z zlatim runom in črno emajliranim kremenem z v sredini posutimi belimi pikami in rdeče emajliranimi plameni. Nad njim je zlato in temnomodro emajlirano kresilo z geslom PRETIUM LABORUM NON VILE; na reverzu je napis NON ALUID. Del kresila je tudi zlata ploščica v obliki krone z reliefom viteza, ko s kopjem na gozdni jasi prebada zmaja. Zlato okrašena in modro emajlirana zaponka, imenovana coulant, drži nad kresilom v obročku rdeč trak. Nosilec je red nosil na rdečem traku okoli vrata na sredini ovratnika srajce. Red zlatega runa je imel prednost pred vsemi drugimi insignijami činov in odlikovanj.

The Order of the Golden Fleece was founded on January 10th, 1430, by Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy. We rank it among the historically most influential secular European dynastic orders. It was intended to reward members of the House of Habsburg and members of the highest nobility and state leaders. The principal purpose of the order was the defence of the Roman Catholic Church. The symbol of the order is a golden ram's fleece (wool) hanging from a blue-enamelled flint. In this way, the connection with the ancient Greek hero tale of Jason and the Argonauts is expressed, but in the Middle Ages, the mythological hero Jason was replaced by St. George, who slays the dragon.

Among the Austrian noble elite, membership in the order was considered the pinnacle of their career. Part of this noble elite was also Count Walter Leslie, diplomat, and owner of the Ptuj estate between 1656 and 1667. Before leaving for a diplomatic expedition to Istanbul in 1665 and 1666, he asked Emperor Leopold I to award him the Order of the Golden Fleece. He also had the prestigious award immortalised on the coat of arms of the Leslie family, erected above the portal in the ceremonial hall of Ptuj Castle.

In the 18th century, two independent orders of the Golden Fleece (Austrian and Spanish) were founded. The Austrian one was abolished with the breakup of the Austro-Hungarian Empire in 1918, but it is still awarded as the highest decoration of the Kingdom of Spain in the 21st century.

The order consists of a gold fleece pendant and black-enamelled flint with white dots sprinkled in the centre and red-enamelled flames. Above it is gold and dark blue enamel firesteels with the motto: PRETIUM LABORUM NON VILE; on the reverse is the inscription NON ALUID. A golden tile in the shape of a crown with a relief of a knight impaling a dragon with a spear in a forest glade is also part of the fire striker. A gold-decorated and blue-enamelled clasp, called a coulant, holds a red ribbon above the firesteels in a ring. The bearer wore the order on a red ribbon around his neck in the middle of his shirt collar. The Order of the Golden Fleece took precedence over all other insignia of ranks and decorations.

Avstrijski cesar Franc I. je 14. julija 1808 ustanovil avstrijskocesarsko odlikovanje Leopoldovega reda. Visoko odlikovanje je bilo posvečeno njegovemu očetu Leopoldu II., zato je poimenovano po njem. Namenjeno je bilo ljudem, zaslužnim za civilne in vojaške uspehe za cesarski dom in državo. Red je imel štiri stopnje. V 19. stoletju so bile v uporabi tri stopnje: veliki križ, komturski in mali (viteški) križ. Prva stopnja reda z zvezdo je bila uvedena leta 1901. Sestavljena je iz zlatega, rdeče emajliranega križa z belo emajliranimi robovi in osmimi kraki žarkov. Na sprednji strani Leopoldovega križa, katerega kraki so rahlo vbočeni navznoter, je v sredini medaljon s prepletenimi črkami F.I.A.; medaljon obkroža belo emajliran prstan z napisom INTEGRITATI ET MERITO.

On July 14th, 1808, the Austrian Emperor Franz I established the Austrian Imperial Order of Leopold. The high award was dedicated to his father, Leopold II, and is therefore named after him. It was intended for persons deserving of civil and military merit for the imperial house and country. The order had four ranks. In the 19th century, three grades were in use: the Grand Cross, the Commander's Cross and the Small (Knight's) Cross. The First Class Star of the Order was introduced in 1901. It consists of a gold, red-enamelled cross with white-enamelled edges and eight arms of rays. On the obverse of the Leopold cross, the arms of which are slightly concave inwards, there is a medallion in the centre with the interlaced letters F.I.A., surrounded by a white enamel ring inscribed: INTEGRITATI ET MERITO.

Francoski vladar Napoleon Bonaparte je ob kronanju za italijanskega kralja leta 1805 ustanovil prvotni red železne krone. Na dunajskem kongresu so po končanih vojnah z Napoleonom v Evropi določili nove meje; sestavni del Avstrijskega cesarstva je tako postalo Lombardsko-beneško kraljestvo. V počastitev dogodka je avstrijski cesar Franc I. 7. aprila 1815 obnovil odlikovanje. Podeljevali so ga za vojne in civilne zasluge, v 19. stoletju pa se je razvilo v eno najvišjih odlikovanj habsburške monarhije. Red je imel tri viteške stopnje. Ima obliko zlatega dvoglavega avstrijskega orla s kronama na glavah. Pod orлом je langobardska železna kruna, nad orлом pa z rdečim emajlom okrašena rudolfska kruna. Orel z mečem in kroglo nosi na averzu na obeh straneh oprsja temno modro emajliran ščit z monogramom F, na reverzu pa letnico ustanovitve 1815. Odličje so nosili na zlatorumenem traku z modrima progama ob strani.

French ruler Napoleon Bonaparte founded the original Order of the Iron Crown upon his coronation as King of Italy in 1805. At the Congress of Vienna, after the end of the Napoleonic Wars, new borders in Europe were determined; the Kingdom of Lombardy-Venetia became a constituent land of the Austrian Empire. In honour of the event, the Austrian Emperor Franz I re-established the order on April 7th, 1815. It was awarded for military and civilian merit, and during the 19th century, it developed into one of the highest orders of merit of the Habsburg monarchy. The order had three classes of knighthood. It has the shape of a golden double-headed Austrian eagle with crowns on its heads. Below the eagle is the Iron Crown of Lombardy, and above the eagle is the Rudolphian crown decorated with red enamel. On the obverse, an eagle with a sword and orb carries on both sides of its breast a dark-blue-enamelled shield with the imperial initial F, and on the shield's reverse the year of establishment 1815. The decoration was worn on a golden-yellow ribbon with blue stripes on the side.

Cesar Franc Jožef I. je 2. decembra 1849 ustanovil medaljo avstrijskicesarski red Franca Jožefa, s katero je obeležil prvo obletnico prihoda na oblast. Podeljevali so jo v miru in vojni za posebno zasluge v javnem življenju, gospodarstvu, znanosti, kulturi in humanitarnosti. Red je imel na začetku tri, od leta 1901 pa štiri stopnje: veliki križ, komturski križ, oficirski križ (1901) in viteški križec. Za geslo odlikovanja je bilo uporabljeno osebno vodilo cesarja: VIRIBUS UNITIS. Odličje sestavlja rdeče emajliran zlat enakokraki križ in črno emajliran zlat dvoglavi orel. Na vrhu križa je pritrjena rudolfska krona. V belo emajliranem polju je na averzu zlat monogram FJ, na reverzu pa z zlatom izpisana letnica 1849. Med avstrijskimi redovi za zasluge je bil v družbi ta red najbolj množičen. Upoštevani so bili predvsem pripadniki srednjega družbenega sloja. Red je bil ukinjen z zakonom 3. aprila 1919.

On December 2nd, 1849, Emperor Franz Joseph I established the Imperial Austrian Order of Franz Joseph medal, with which he marked the first anniversary of his coming to power. It was awarded in peace and war for special merits in public life, economy, science, culture and humanitarianism. The order was originally awarded in three classes, but from 1901 it had four classes: Grand Cross, Commander's Cross, Officer's Cross (1901), and Knight's Cross. The personal motto of the emperor was used for the motto of the award: VIRIBUS UNITIS. The decoration consists of a red-enamelled gold equal-armed cross and a black-enamelled gold double-headed eagle. At the top of the cross is a Rudolphian crown. On the obverse, in a white enamel field is the gold monogram FJ and on the reverse the year 1849 is written in gold. Among the Imperial Austrian orders of merit, this order was the most numerous in society. Members of the middle social class were mainly considered. The order was abolished by law on April 3rd, 1919.

Oficirski križ reda Franca Jožefa je bil po rangu med komturskim križem in viteškim križcem. Od septembra 1914 so bili lahko z redom Franca Jožefa odlikovani tudi častniki iz podpornih služb (vojaški uradniki, zdravniki), ki so odlikovanje nosili na vojnem traku. Z vojnim okrasjem so oficirski križ podeljevali od 10. januarja 1915 do konca prve svetovne vojne; namesto vojnega traku so med križ in krono vstavili zeleno emajliранe trakce. Napis VIRIBUS UNITIS je sestavni del verige, ki je vidna nad monogramom FJ.

The Officer's Cross of the Order of Franz Joseph was ranked between the Commander's Cross and the Knight's Cross. From September 1914, officers from the support services (military officials, doctors) could also be awarded the Order of Franz Joseph, they wore the decoration on the military ribbon. With the war decoration, the Officer's Cross was awarded from January 10th, 1915, until the end of World War I; instead of the military ribbon, green-enamelled ribbons were inserted between the cross and the crown. The inscription VIRIBUS UNITIS is an integral part of the chain visible above the FJ monogram.

Zasluzni križ je bil ustanovljen v štirih stopnjah: zlati zasluzni križec s krono, zlati zasluzni križec, srebrni zasluzni križec s krono in srebrni zasluzni križec. Razlika med zlatim in srebrnim križcem je v medaljonu – ta pri srebrnem ni emajliran. Krone je bila v rdeči emajlirani podloženi in neobloženi obliki. Nosili so ga na rdečem trikotnem traku.

The Cross of Merit came in four classes: the Golden Cross of Merit with a Crown, the Golden Cross of Merit, the Silver Cross of Merit with a Crown and the Silver Cross of Merit. The difference between the gold and silver cross is in the medallion, on the silver cross the medallion is not enamelled. The crown came in red enamel, lined and unlined, form. It was worn on a red triangular ribbon.

Med prvo svetovno vojno so zasluzni križ podeljevali aktivnim vojnim uslužbencem, medicinskemu in vojaškemu osebju. Nosili so ga na vojnem traku. 1. aprila 1916 je bilo priznanje razširjeno še na železni križec za zasluge s krono in železni zasluzni križec. Cesar Karel I. je 13. decembra 1916 odredil, da se zasluzni križci podeljujejo tudi z meči v znak hrabrosti v boju s Sovražnikom. V tem primeru so na vojni trak pritrudili dva prekrizana meča. Za razliko od zlatega in srebrnega križca za zasluge sta različici, izdelani iz železa, brez emajla, na hrbtni strani pa je letnica 1916.

During World War I, the Cross of Merit was awarded to active military officials, medical, and military personnel. It was worn on a war ribbon. On April 1st, 1916, the award was extended to include the Iron Cross of Merit with a Crown and the Iron Cross of Merit. On December 13th, 1916, Emperor Karl I ordered that Meritorious Crosses with swords should also be awarded to persons as a sign of bravery in the face of the enemy. In this case, two crossed swords were attached to the war ribbon. Unlike the Golden and Silver Crosses of Merit, these versions are made of unenamelled iron and bear the date 1916 on the reverse.

Medalja za hrabrost je bila visoko vojaško priznanje habsburške monarhije. Odličje je 19. julija 1789 ustanovil cesar Jožef II. Z njim je želel odlikovati nižje oficirje in moštva, ki so se hrabro odrezala na bojišču. 18. maja 1809 so odlikovanje preimenovali v medaljo za hrabrost. Cesar Franc Jožef I. je 14. februarja 1915 dodal še bronasto medaljo za hrabrost v velikosti srebrne medalje za hrabrost II. stopnje. Bronasto medaljo za hrabrost so kot najvišjo stopnjo medalje lahko podelili tudi pripadnikom armad zaveznic Avstrije. Na averzu je v levem profilu mladostni portret cesarja Franca Jožefa I. Na reverzu je medalja obdana z lotorovim vencem in podložena s šestimi prekrižanimi praporji. V sredini je napis DER TAPFERKEIT. Prvi model je izdelal medaljer K. Lange. Medaljo so podeljevali na vojnem traku trikotne oblike s svetlo rdeče-belimi črtami ter rdečo in belo progo na robu. Častniki so odlikovanje nosili na žebličku na levi strani oprsja.

Cesar Franc Jožef I. je v spomin na svoje 60-letno vladanje leta 1908 ustanovil jubilejni križ v treh različicah (vojaški, civilni in dvorni križ), razlikovali so se le po traku. Upravičenci do civilnega jubilejnega križa so bili vsi državljeni, ne glede na stan in spol, ki so bili na dan njegove ustanovitve aktivni v državni službi. Jubilejni vojaški križ so dobili vsi, ki so bili do ustanovitve tega odličja aktivni v vojaški službi vseh rodov vojske in žandarmerije, pa tudi navadni vojaki. Pogoj je bil le, da so bili na dan ustanovitve odlikovanja v vojski prisotni dve leti. Odlikovanje so podelili tudi vojakom ne glede na vojaški čin in mesto v vojski, ki so se skupaj s cesarjem in feldmaršalom Radetzkym udeležili vojnega pohoda v Italiji in sodelovali v boju. Na averzu je na sredini križa medaljon, na katerem je upodobljen v desnem profilu cesar. Zadaj, na levi strani portretne glave cesarja, je majhen napis FRANC IOS I. Krake križa, ki se ožijo proti sečišču, povezuje lovorov venec. Reverz križa je gladek in ima na okroglem delu letnici 1848/1908.

In 1908, Emperor Franz Joseph I established the jubilee cross in three versions (military, civil, and court cross) to mark the 60th anniversary of his reign, only differing in the ribbon. Beneficiaries of the Civil Jubilee Cross were all citizens, regardless of status and gender, who were active in the civil service on the day of its establishment. The Military Jubilee Cross was awarded to all who were active in the military service of all branches of the army, gendarmerie, and ordinary soldiers until the establishment of this award. The only condition was that they were present in the army for two years prior to the establishment of the award. The decoration was also awarded to soldiers, regardless of military rank and position, in the army, who together with the emperor and Field Marshal Radetzky took part in the military campaign in Italy and participated in the battle. On the obverse, in the middle of the cross, there is a medallion depicting the right profile of the emperor. In the back, on the left side of the portrait of the emperor, there is a small inscription FRANC IOS I. The arms of the cross, which narrow towards the intersection, are connected by a laurel wreath. The reverse of the cross is smooth and has the year 1848/1908 on its round part.

Vojno okrasje je bilo na Leopoldovem redu uvedeno s cesarskim odlokom 1. marca 1860. Oznaka vojnega okrasja sta zeleno emajlirani lotorovi vejici oziroma venec. Odličje je bilo sestavljeno iz zlatega, rdeče emajliranega križa z belo emajliranimi robovi in zlate rdeče emajlirane rudolfske krone na vrhu križa; zeleno emajlirani vejici sta pritrjeni pod krono. Na averzu Leopoldovega križa je medaljon, obkrožen z belo emajliranim prstanom z napisom INTEGRITATI ET MERITO. Na reverzu je v belo emajliranem in z zlatim lotorovim vencem uokvirjenem medaljonu napis OPES REGUM CORDA SUBDITORIUM. Med prvo svetovno vojno so leta 1916 vsem avstro-ogrskim odlikovanjem dodali meče za zasluge v bitki, od leta 1917 pa so poveljniki na službenih uniformah lahko nosili majhne dekoracije.

The Order of Leopold military decoration was introduced by an imperial decree on March 1st, 1860. The symbol of the military decoration is green-enamelled laurel branches or a wreath. The decoration consists of a red-enamelled gold cross with white enamel edging and a red-enamelled gold Rudolphian crown on top of the cross; green-enamelled twigs are attached under the crown. On the obverse of the Leopold Cross, the medallion is surrounded by a white enamel ring with the inscription: INTEGRITATI ET MERITO. On the reverse, in a white enamelled medallion framed by a golden laurel wreath, is the inscription: OPES REGUM CORDA SUBDITORIUM. During World War I, in 1916, crossed swords were added to all Austro-Hungarian decorations for meritorious service in battle, and, from 1917 on, commanders could wear small decorations on their service uniforms.

V primerjavi z drugimi avstrijskimi redovi ta red nima oblike križa, ampak obliko zlatega dvoglavega avstrijskega orla s krono na vsaki glavi. Pod orlom je emajlirana langobardska železna krona, nad orlom pa rudolfska krona. Orel nosi na averzu temno modro emajliran ščit z monogramom F, na reverzu pa letnico ustanovitve 1815. Leta 1860 je bilo za vse stopnje uvedeno vojno okrasje; zeleno emajlirani lovorozi vejici sta bili položeni na orlova krila. Vitezi III. stopnje so nosili znak reda na trikotno prepognjenem traku na levi strani prsnega koša.

Compared to other Austrian orders, this order does not have the shape of a cross, but the shape of a golden double-headed Austrian eagle with crowns on its heads. Below the eagle is an enamelled Iron Crown of Lombardy, and above the eagle is a Rudolphian crown. On the obverse, the eagle bears a dark blue-enamelled shield with the imperial initial F, and on the reverse the year of establishment 1815. In 1860, war decorations were introduced for all ranks; green-enamelled laurel branches were placed on the eagle's wings. Third Class knights wore the insignia of the order on a triangular folded ribbon on the left side of the chest.

Vojaški križ za zasluge je 22. oktobra 1849 ustanovil cesar Franc Jožef I. Predlog za ustanovitev odlikovanja je dal avstrijski feldmaršal grof Radetzky; hotel je odlikovati svoje zveste častnike, ki so se izkazali v avstrijsko-italijanskih bitkah v letih 1848 in 1849. Po statutu o vojaškem križu je bilo odlikovanje lahko podeljeno na predlog vojnega ministrstva. Prejeli so ga lahko oficirji za izjemne zasluge v vojni in tudi v miru. Odlikovanje je bilo izdelano v obliki srebrnega Leopoldovega križa z rdeče in belo emajliranimi kraki v premeru 30 mm. V osrednjem polju križa je bil srebrn napis VER / DIENST. Reverz je bil gladek in brez napisa. Križ so nosili na rdeče-belem črtastem traku. Odlikovanje je imelo do leta 1914 le eno stopnjo, nato sta bili dodani še dve, skupaj so torej bile tri stopnje: veliki zlati križ, komturni srebrni križ, mali srebrni križ. Za vojaške zasluge so posameznikom med prvo svetovno vojno odlikovanje lahko podelili največ trikrat, označili pa so ga z do tremi pozlačenimi prečnimi ploščicami na traku. V primeru ponovne podelitve vojnega križa za zasluge III. stopnje z mečema bi na zgornjo ploščico pritrtili prekrižana meča.

The Military Merit Cross was established on October 22nd, 1849, by Emperor Franz Joseph I, based on the recommendation of Field Marshal Count Radetzky, who wanted to honour his loyal officers who had distinguished themselves in the Austro-Italian battles in the years 1848 and 1849. It was to be awarded to officers for outstanding service in wartime as well as in peacetime. The decoration was made in the form of a silver Leopold cross with red-and-white-enamelled arms with a diameter of 30 mm. In the central field of the cross was a silver inscription: VER / DIENST. The reverse was smooth, without inscription. The cross was worn on a red and white striped ribbon. The award only had one class until 1914, then two more classes were added; there were three classes in total: large gold cross, commander's silver cross, and small silver cross. For military merit, individuals could be awarded up to three times during World War I; decorations were marked with up to three gilded cross tiles on the ribbon. In the case of re-awarding the Military Merit Cross 3rd class with swords, they would attach crossed swords to the top tile.

Vojaška medalja za zasluge, imenovana tudi Signum laudis, na vojnem traku in s prekrižanima mečema je bila ustanovljena 13. decembra 1916. Podeljena je bila vojaškim osebam za zasluge v boju s sovražnikom. Po smrti cesarja Franca Jožefa I. 21. novembra 1916 so odličeje z njegovim portretom podeljevali do aprila 1917, ko so njegov portret na averzu medalje vseh stopenj na ukaz cesarja Karla I. zamenjali s portretom aktualnega vladarja. Na averzu je prikazan desni profil cesarja Franca Jožefa I. z lovoročim vencem na glavi. Na robu ga obkroža napis FRANCISCVS JOS I D G IMP AVST REX BOH ETC ET REX APOST HVNG. Reverz medalje ima na sredini napis SIGNUM / LAUDIS. Napis je obdan z dvodelnim obročem, sestavljenim iz lovoročih in hrastovih vejic. Medalja je izdelek zlatarne Rothe & Neffe, Wien.

On the obverse, the medal shows the right profile of Emperor Franz Joseph I with a laurel wreath on his head. It is surrounded by the inscription FRANCISCVS JOS I D G IMP AVST REX BOH ETC ET REX APOST HVNG. The reverse of the medal has the inscription SIGNUM / LAUDIS in the centre. Vojaška medalja za zasluge v več stopnjah je bila ustanovljena 12. marca 1890 za oficirje, ki so se jim z najvišjega mesta želeli zahvaliti za vidne uspehe v vojni. Za izjemno služenje je bilo v mirnodobnem času priznanje podeljeno z najvišjim sklepom in z izrazom »najvišjega zadovoljstva«. Medalje, ki so bile podeljene v vojnem času, so nosili na traku vojaškega zaslужnega križa, v mirnodobnem času pa na rdečem trikotnem traku. 26. marca 1911 je bila ustanovljena še srebrna medalja za vojne zasluge; oblika traku in pomen te medalje sta ostala enaka kot pri bronasti medalji. Od aprila 1916 so lahko posamezniku srebrno in bronasto vojno medaljo za zasluge podelili dvakrat ali trikrat. Na medaljah, ki so jih podeljevali od aprila 1917, je bila glava cesarja Karla I., naslednika Franca Jožefa I. Prvo obliko medalje sta oblikovala medaljerja Anton Scharff (averz) in Andreas Neudech (reverz); poznejša različica se razlikuje od Scharffovega modela po stiliziranem obrobnem vencu na sprednji strani.

The Military Merit Medal was established on March 12th, 1890, for officers in several ranks whom they wanted to thank from the highest position for their outstanding achievements in the war. For outstanding service in peacetime, recognition was given with the highest decree and with the expression of "the highest satisfaction". Medals awarded in wartime were worn on the ribbon of the Military Merit Cross, and in peacetime on a red triangular ribbon. On March 26th, 1911, the Silver Military Merit Medal was established; the shape of the ribbon and its meaning remained the same as for the Bronze Military Merit Medal. From April 1916, an individual could be awarded the Silver and Bronze Military Merit Medal twice or thrice. The medals, which were awarded from April 1917 on, showed the image of Emperor Karl I, the successor of Franz Joseph I. The first design of the medal was designed by the medallists Anton Scharff (obverse) and Andreas Neudech (reverse); the later version is distinguished from the Scharff model by the stylised surrounding wreath on the obverse.

Oznaka za vojaško službo je priznanje za oficirje in moštvo. Cesar Franc Jožef I. ga je 19. septembra 1849 razdelil v dve skupini (za oficirje in za moštvo). Leta 1890 so bili razredi preoblikovani: medalje oficirske skupine so bile razdeljene na tri skupine (za 50, za 40 in za 25 let služenja v vojski), nižji oficirji in moštvo pa so še naprej dobivali medalje z dvema razredoma (za 24 in za 12 službenih let). Oznaka za vojaško službo III. stopnje ima na averzu srebrnega dvojnega orla, ki je obložen z grbom kraljevske hiše. Znak ima obliko bronastega šapastega križa, rob križa je gladek in padač. Globlje ležeča mrežasta površina je obdana s bisernim venčkom. Na reverzu je biserni vložek.

The decoration for military service is recognition for officers and regiments. On September 19th, 1849, Emperor Franz Joseph I divided it into two groups (for officers and regiments). In 1890, the classes of decoration were reorganised. Medals for the officers were divided into three groups (for 50, 40 and 25 years of service in the army); junior officers and regiments continued to receive medals of two classes (for 24 and 12 years of service). The obverse of the Officer's Military Service Decoration, 3rd Class has a silver double eagle, on the breast of the eagle is the Habsburg coat of arms. The decoration has the form of a bronze cross pattée (clawed cross), the edge of the cross is smooth and descending. The deeper finely granulated area is surrounded by a mother-of-pearl edge. There is a mother-of-pearl insert on the reverse.

PMPO, G 989 s.

Tričetrtinski reprezentančni portret generalmajorja Franca Rimla v svečani uniformi, na katero so pripeta številna visoka vojaška odlikovanja, je nastal kmalu potem, ko je cesar Franc Jožef zaradi vojaških zaslug na bojnem polju Rimla leta 1916 povzdignil v dedni plemički stan z atributom von Altrosenburg, o čemer priča v zgornjem levem kotu naslikan grb s stolpom in vrtnico.

Provenienca: Dvorec Zamošak v Zamušnih pri Gorišnici, zupnija Riml.

The three-quarter representative portrait of Major General Franz Riml in a ceremonial uniform, to which many high military decorations are pinned, was created shortly after Emperor Franz Joseph elevated Riml to hereditary nobility with the attribute of von Altrosenburg for his military merits on the battlefield; in the upper left corner of the painting, there is a coat of arms with a tower and a rose to commemorate his elevation.

Provenance: Manor Zamošak in Zamušani near Gorišica, legacy of the Riml Family.

Dopasni portret mladega moža v avstro-ogrski temnomodri oficirski mornariški uniformi, odlikovanega s Karlovim križem in bronasto medaljo za hrabrost, predstavlja najstarejšega sina generalmajorja Franca Rimla, Franca mlajšega, ki se je rodil leta 1898 v Innsbrucku. Med prvo svetovno vojno je bil leta 1916 imenovan za mornariškega aspiranta, podatki o njegovi nadaljnji vojaški karieri pa za zdaj niso znani. Portret je nastal na osnovi fotografije kmalu po razpadu avstro-ogrske monarhije.

Provenienca: Dvorec Zamošak v Zamušanih pri Gorišnici, zupnija Riml. FZC je sliko predal muzeju leta 1948. Na podokvirju je bila levo zgoraj z modro kredo napisana številka 84, ki se nanaša na primopredajni seznam FZC: T. št. 84, Predmet Pomorski oficir Rimml (sin), okvir brez, material olje, velikost 63/84, lastnik NI, cena 250 din.

The waist-up portrait of a young man in an Austro-Hungarian dark blue officer's navy uniform, who was awarded the Karl Cross and the Bronze Medal for Bravery, represents the eldest son of Major General Franz Riml, Franz Jr., who was born in 1898 in Innsbruck. During World War I, he was appointed as a naval aspirant in 1916, further information about his military career is currently unknown. The portrait was created based on a photograph shortly after the collapse of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy.

Provenance: Manor Zamošak in Zamušani near Gorišnica, legacy of the Riml Family. The FZC handed over the painting to the museum in 1948. On the subframe, the number 84 was written in blue chalk on the upper left, which refers to the FZC handover list: T. no. 84, item Naval officer Rimml (son), frame: without, material: oil, size 63/84, owner NO, price 250 dinars.

On the high-cut collar, he is wearing four golden six-pointed stars. On the left side of the chest, he has a Gold Medal for Merit in the Medical Service (awarded in 1845) attached, in his gloved left hand he holds a bicorne (two-cornered hat), such as those worn by state officials in the first half of the 19th century, and in his right hand, he holds the other glove close to his body. Attached to his left leg is an official sabre decorated with a gold braid. The figure is standing by a fence with a pillar in the background. Behind him is a cloudy grey sky.

Reprezentančni portret Ernesta Eckla, ki je bil ptujski župan v letih od 1885 do 1894, je bil verjetno naslikan po naročilu ptujskega magistrata. Dopasni portret osivelega, na videz dobrodušnega moža, s skrbno urejeno belo brado in brki, v tričetrtinskem zasušku v desno, oblečenega v črno obleko in belo srajco s črnim metuljčkom, je dobra karakterna študija posetnika in trgovca, čigar županski mandat je bil zaznamovan z zmerno in popustljivo politiko. Na levi strani prsi ima pripeto odlikovanje, red cesarja Franca Jožefa, ki ga je prejel za opravljeno delo in zasluge leta 1894.

Provenienca: Magistrat Ptuj. Razstava: 1895 – Ptuj, Samostojna razstava Alojza Oswatitscha, Lokalni muzej Ptuj, Prešernova ulica 31. The representative portrait of Ernest Eckl, who was the mayor of Ptuj between 1885 and 1894, was probably painted on the order of the Ptuj magistrate. The waist-up portrait of a grey-haired, and, from the appearance, good-natured man, with a carefully trimmed white beard and moustache, turned three-quarters to the right, wearing a black suit and white shirt with a black bow tie, is a good character study of the landowner and merchant, whose term as mayor was marked by moderate and permissive policy. On the left side of his chest, he has a decoration, the Order of Emperor Franz Joseph, which he received for his work and merits in 1894.

Provenance: Ptuj Magistrate. Exhibition: 1895 – Ptuj, Solo exhibition of Alojz Oswatitsch, Local Museum Ptuj, Prešernova ulica 31.
